“ When I first saw him and saw how cute and handsome he was, I just melted as I looked at him and recognized the beauty of God's creation and I kept looking into his big beautiful eyes and knew that for that moment we have been blessed with another member to our big beautiful family and that soon he would be running around with his cousins, but God had a different plan for him and that was to be here with us for what we feel is a short time, now God has called him back home because he needed him to help watch over his family. Oh how much we all LOVE you so, please God keep him close and continue to give our broken hearts peace and comfort knowing that he is in a better place. God Bless!!!!
