“ Dad you were wondering man and now you are in peace we as a family will think of you everyday and I miss seeing you sitting in our house you made our house a full of happiness and love you will be in hearts forever and thank you for the memories you spent with us we will cherish them forever

“ As the next door neighbor of John and Terrie Kohl for many years, watching their young children grow into adulthood, I was privileged to know Fred after his son and daughter-in-law invited him to live with them. At that time, Fred was in his early 80s. During warmer weather Fred enjoyed sitting on the front porch, sipping coffee, smoking cigars, and watching the children of our block at play. Neighbors called him “Pop,” and he always had a smile and a twinkle in his eye. His grandchildren enjoyed sitting with him, as did the family dog Ranger. He was obviously a happy man who was loved by his family.
