“ I only knew Jere through Lancaster Press, but he left a lasting impression. He was a 1st rate pressman - very conscientious, witty, and fun - and the customers loved him. Too many stories funny stories remembered. He once told the Audubon people on a press check: “if the birds looked any more realistic, they’d fly off the page” 😂. He truly was one of a kind and my condolences go out to his whole family.

“ Jere and I were cousins and grew up having so much fun, he was quite the kidder to all of us, saw him at the dog groomers and we chatted about the old days. Please know that I am sad and thinking about you Diane and his family.

“ My heart felt condolences to Diane & family. I knew Jere many, many years ago, he & my brother Steve, who passed two years ago, were best friends & shared many good times together. What I remember most is his sense of humor & laugh which made me laugh even if I didn't know what he was laughing about, a really good guy! Rest in peace Jere & I hope when you & Steve meet up you both manage to stay out of trouble!!❤️

“ I cannot think of Jere without a smile on my face. From his laughter, sense of humor, love for his family, and larger-than-life personality, he has been a huge part of my life. Our parents playing cards as we played games. The laughter, cursing and joy that filled our houses was a blessing. Even through the busiest of my adult life, if there was an opportunity to cross paths, I would certainly make it happen. I know that Jere is sitting with Dad talking, sharing stories, and telling jokes.

Diane and family. you are in my thoughts and prayers. May peace and love fill your hearts and homes during this difficult time.

We love you always
