“ I may not have seen my my aunt often but I knew she was in a lot of pain not the pain that you can see on the outside but the pain inside. Even at the young age I was I felt like I may have been the only one who truly understood that pain. It the kind you hide behind a smile and comes out at all the wrong moments with all the wrong words.i saw that pain but I still loved my aunt. All our little moments together hold a special place in my heart good and bad. May she rest in peace with God in the house of eternity.
