“ Larry Jurcak July 13, 2012 at 9:15 pm I started out with DVDnextCopy when it was owned as 321 Studios which was a long time ago. Where you guys involved back then? Answer 2005-2006 When approached to develop an open source software platform that would copy DVDs and compress them for DVD5 blank discs, we created ShrinkTo5. Once we created the platform, an optional burn plugin was offered to users for the nominal fee of $1 USD. Late in 2006, DVDneXtCOPY took control of the Shrinkto5 project, including the website. Shrinkto5 would later become the early rendition of DVDneXtCOPY.
