“ Sometimes in life there are no words to express the loss you feel. Each of us have our own special memories of this special lady. Growing up I remember walking across town to spend time with her. Staying up way too late, playing all kinds of card games until the sun came up. She taught me how to make the best rice. With her there was no candy coating. She told it how it was, I never had to wonder. She was proud of all of us. She may be gone, but I have two kids, that have her deep brown eyes. Since they were little, everytime I looked at them I saw her, looking back at me. It hard to fathom that I can no longer stop by Walnut St and visit with her. You will always be apart of me.

“ Rita was always so kind to me and my now husband and children. She and Felicia and Wilson were the greatest neighbors to date. She always listened to my stories of woe and taught me to make a mean pollo gisau! She was a wonderful person and I will miss her dearly! Tracy Dettrey-Myers

“ My Grandma was a remarkable woman. She was a perfect combination of warmth, kindness, loyalty, laughter and love. She overlooked everyone's flaws and accepted everyone she met, no matter what. Her love for her family, blood or not, was undying. She never told you what you wanted to hear, she told you what you NEEDED to hear. She was the most realist person I've ever known. She was filled with so much wisdom, advice and love. She was someone we all loved, admired and respected. She will ALWAYS have a cherished place in our memories and in our hearts. The day you passed away, it has hurt to carry on. Our grieving hearts ache with pain to know you were called home too soon by the good lord. You are no longer suffering and you are finally at peace. The memories we have of you is our keepsake, with which we will never part. God has you in his keeping, we have you in our hearts. Goodbyes are not forever, are not the end; it simply means, I'll miss you until we meet again. I'll be missing you. Love always your granddaughter, Helen.

“ Dear Lady, you're gone, it all feels so final now. No more denial, you know, those games people play? And as I wipe the tears from my eyes, I realize that the void you left behind is not really a void at all, rather a legacy of love. A love that defies boundaries, reaching out still cradling all those left behind.

And how do you sum up decades of feelings? I can only say, thank you. Thank you for the beautiful stories, the happy memories and all those wonderful years filled with your love, smile, wisdom and kindness. Thank you, for the sincere pleasure of just knowing you and having you in my life.

You are always in my heart, as I had often told you. Sadly, unknown to me then, one final time when last I saw you in November. And in my heart is where you will forever remain.

Death can not seize what has been eloquently embossed upon the human heart, or woven into the luxuriant fabric of enduring memory.

Rest in Heaven's embrace. Sleep now, a hard earned slumber, serene and ever peaceful. There are no more struggles for you Rita. And no more words left for me to express...only love.

To all those who grieve, I feel your pain and share your loss. My heart is with each and every one of you. 💕

My friend, I will miss you until we meet in heaven. You will be missed so much. She was a woman who never turned away any one. If you were hungry, she feed you. No place to live? She gave you a bed. My heart is breaking. We had so much fun, you and I. I laugh when I think of when we went to Canada to bingo. Brenda was with us. we had a ball. We always said when we die, we are taking our bingo chips and cig's with us. And if there is no bingo in heaven, we'll start one. Here I am, crying again. You were the best friend I ever had. We had secrets no one could get out of us. I remember the night I came to your house drunk as a monkey. You put me to bed on your sofa. Here comes Clarence, pounding on the door. I want my wife. Open this door or I push it in. Oh so many times we laughed about that. R I P my friend. I'll see you again. There will never be another like you. You were loved so much and gave so much love. I love you Rita. No one will ever take your place.
