“ Hi Mom: I'm really struggling today. I'm glad they keep this up. It some how helps me to get through the tough times, especially today. And my biggest fear is Fay is having heart surgery today. I know that she will have a great surgeon Dr. Evans. Nothing has changed with Adreanna. Boy do I ever realize what you went through in your years. But one thing I have learned from you is your strong faith in God. I just wish I hadn't wasted all those years. Also, I have Dr. Rodenberger. He said he remembers you and me. Gee I wonder why. Oh, Jesse has been at me to give his one plaque to Kenny which I did and it made him so happy. And the date on the plaque was 1977 the same year Kenny was born. It's amazing how things like that come into play. He said he would always treasure it. I'm glad I was able to do that. I guess I am going to go for now. As you know I miss you and love you so very much. With all my love your daughter, Cindy

“ Hey Mom as another year will soon be ending, it comes with a lot of heartache as always. We've been through a lot lately with Nathan. We almost lost him. And then the horrible horror with Adreanna. We will never see her again or our great grandson thanks to Bobby, Tina, Gary and Anita. But then you know all that cause you have been looking down on everything. As you also know Tina once again had yet another affair and this time Nathan made her leave. Your pillows still are at church. I've been wanting to bring them home, but can't bring myself to do it. Things here on earth are getting so bad that you can see the end times unfolding right in front of us. I wish I had some good news or something positive to share. The one thing that has been a great impact on my life is my love for God and how he never does leave me. Fay and I talk at least once a week if not more depending on the week I am having. I keep telling her we need to live closer. Well I guess I gotta go for now and get stuff ready for Sunday School and church. Mom I love you so much please tell everyone there Dad, Jesse, and everyone I love them and miss them so much. Forever your loving daughter, Cindy

“ Hi Mom. I know that your brother Jay passed yesterday morning. What a rejoiceful time in Heaven and reunion it must be even though there is sadness here on earth And poor Sue, I hate Lancaster General. They wouldn't even let her stay in the hospital. So he was alone when he left. And no one there to comfort Sue when she got that cold horrible call. I pictured in my mind when precious died and you wanted her ashes with yours, her running into your open arms with tears of joy. Oh she brought us so much joy. But I am glad she is with you. Oh mom you often said you didn't want to be here in the end times. Well I think they are here. I miss you and love you so much mom. I know our clock ticks for when we die when we take our first breath of life. Oh and Janet is there with you all as well. She was an amazing person. I'm glad they leave this available to me. I guess I have to start an empty heart kind of day. I LOVE YOU MOM.

“ Hi Mom: I visit this very often. I can not believe that tomorrow will only be 2 years. It seems like a life time since you left me. I still feel the pain as if it were yesterday. I miss you so very much and there isn't a day that goes by that I do not talk to you and/or cry. I know you knew how I felt about you cause I wrote you a letter that you read and I've told you many times that you were always my best friend. Today that still holds true. I haven't had no one I can confide in like I could you. I know the pain you went through losing your mom, and then dad and Jesse not even a year apart. Oh the pain your heart carried. Precious is doing fine. I told you we would take care of her and we are. I know I said when you get to heaven, PLEASE do not forget about me here. And you haven't. Oh just to hear your voice and to feel the love in your arms one more time. I know that won't be possible until I see you again. I never felt as much pain as this in my life. Well Mom, I will let you go for now. I LOVE AND MISS YOU SO MUCH :(. Your loving daughter always,
Cindy
