“ I worked with Steve at Isaac's many moons ago. I loved working with him - he was the best cook, always had me cracking up behind the grills, and led by example. My condolences to the family.

“ I was a salesman who worked with Steve at Plain & Fancy for over 5 years. When he went to Calvary Homes he took me in to do business. I used to see Steve every other Friday, not because I had to, but because I wanted to. Steve was just a super guy, I enjoyed dealing with him and his friendship. They do not come any better. RIP Steve.

“ I worked with Steve at Plain & Fancy, and always enjoyed his sense of humor and wit. I'll never forget how he managed to crack up Adam Richman when they were filming the Man v Food 'Feasts Episode' at the restaurant. Steve was the PERFECT chef to represent us on camera!

“ The first thing I always think of when I think of Steve is his smile! His smile always lit up his face. His omelettes were pretty damn good too! 😊 My residents at Calvary were always glad when they found out Steve was on the grill. Blessed be, Steve “ Steve was one of my favorites at Calvary Homes. His sense of humor made me laugh often. Since I did payroll I could enjoy his zany comments on some of his variance slips. But oh how I loved his cooking. His soups were amazing, and he even shared his recipe for Ham soup with me. He always had a big smile for all he came in contact with each day. He brightened our days. There were many sad faces and tears the day we heard. We miss you already.

Steve and I worked together, he has thought me so much about cooking. His soups were the best. The laughs we shared in the kitchen were endless. Steve always had a nickname for everyone, the one I will never forget is Uncle Benny😂😂😂 That's how we would greet each other when we would see one another. A beautiful soul gone to soon. Rest on my friend.

I got to spend some time with Steve when he came to work too early to clock in at Calvary. He had a gentle and confident spirit even though he was facing a frightening illness. Wish I had met him sooner.

Steve was loved by all at Calvary. He had a great talent and love for cooking. He worked well with everyone, one of my favorite nicknames he gave a fellow employee was planktain, (joy). His nicknames were always fun. He called me "the commiss". He called the kitchen "the Romper Room". The nicknames are endless, just ask anybody who worked with Steve. He is truly missed.

I had the pleasure of working with Steve in the kitchen at Calvary. Steve just had a way of drawing you in. I always looked forward to his one liners. When I hadn't seen him for 5 days he would greet me with "I see you're still here" or "they let you come back". When I struggled with a cold for several weeks he called me Sickly Sue. I knew it was going to be a good day when I saw his smile. He loved to cook (although not baking) and he frequently asked Diane to buy him particular ingredients for a new recipe he wanted to make. Miss you!
