“ A coworker of mine for many years and also a great friend. I struggled with writing a brief memory because there are so many words that come to mind when I think of her. She was a tough shell to crack but once one got to know her it was soon realized she had a huge heart. She was proud of her work and she was darn good at it. She taught me so much about the OR and I'll be forever grateful. Fond memories of outings after work and her laughs while telling stories. My condolences to her family.

“ 22 years ago I started at LGH doing mostly Peds cases in Fondersmith. Sue in the room meant the day would be efficient and error free - delivered with a side of sarcasm. Miss working with her, they don't make them like her any more.

“ I am sad to hear about Susan passing. Once you got to know her, and her unique personality, she was great to work with. She took care of me in my early days of the OR, and shared so much information with me. We had an inside joke about the "loser's list" from Fondersmith that I recall several times every year. My prayers go out to the family.

“ Susan always took care of me while working together in the OR. She was my work mom, and I could always count on her to keep me straight! When my son passed, she send me the most beautiful handwritten card, and gave me so much encouragement. She had a huge heart that some may not have seen, but to me, she was a very special friend. Sending my sincerest condolences to the family.

“ Susan was my mentor in orthopedics when I first started in the OR. She was a wealth of knowledge, on any subject, just not pertaining to the OR, I enjoyed working with her in Fondersmith. Now you can play with all of those puppies in heaven , Julie McMichael

“ Susan was a very special person. I enjoyed reminiscing with her of times of working in the operating room. She would speak of her relationships with surgeons and staff. I believe she was proud of her years at LGH. I enjoyed our occasional breakfasts together. It was always positive, full of stories and laughs. She will be greatly missed.
