“ Wow! Where do I start. In life you may be lucky to say you have a few people that you call "friend." If you are blessed you have one person that you let get close to you and really get to know you better than you know yourself. Terry and I were that, so I have lost my best friend in life! We could tell each other exactly what we were thinking and going through in life. We were always there for each other. We didn't always agree, but that was beautiful too because we both learned a little more compassion in life. My hope for everyone in life is that you have that one true friend that is your very best friend like Terry Hamill was to me! I will truly miss you sir! Keep a place for me with you in heaven my friend. Love you man!

Ray you and my Dad were peas in a pod. Thank you for being his best friend and helping to add quality and fun to his life. I know how much he loved and enjoyed spending time with you, talking, taking photos, having coffee. I'm so sorry you lost your best friend. My heart breaks for you too ♡

Valerie Tribioli - June 11, 2021 at 10:31 AM

It was quite the honor Valerie.

“ I remember being around Terry when I was a young child. I always had the biggest crush on him. He was not only handsome, but he had a fantastic, loving energy and personality. He was always good to me. And I know he spent his life as a blessing to all who knew him. RIP Terry. May the Angels hold and bless you and Say hi to Nana and Poppy for me. May the angels hold Debbie and your family and ease their grief.

Oh Lorah....thank you so much for sharing with us. I agree that he had a fantastic, loving energy and personality. He also was so good to me....it was a real pleasure not only having him as my big brother, but also being a co-worker with him while working at Hand Middle School. He was always by my side and was willing to listen to me not matter what he was doing!
