

William H. Gage

February 15, 2018

William H. Gage, 65, of Leola, PA died on Thursday, February 15, 2018 at home, surrounded by his family. He was born in Cook County, IL, the son of the late John B. and Malinda E. (Horn) Gage. He was a machinist with a specialty in cylinder heads. Bill loved his country, his family, and his hot rod. He enjoyed playing billiards and virtual golf, striving always to beat his own best score.

William is survived by his wife and partner of 26 years, Kristen M. (Ammerman) Gage; his daughter Emily L. married to Benjamin Proctor; his son David C. Gage; and his granddaughter Autumn. Preceding him in death was his sister Nell E. (Gage) Summers.

Services will be held at the convenience of the family. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made in his name to The American Cancer Society.

“ We have fond memories of Bill working at Rutt's Machine . He was our first salesman, and called on 200 accounts and brought us in 40 steady customers for years. and started a foundation that has lasted over 45 years. Leon and Myra and the crew express our condolences, during this difficult time. Prayers with your family.

“ I have known Bill for about 45 years. We became acquainted when he came to school in Durham, N.C. There was a group of us who hung around together. The first memory I have was the night I asked him for a ride home. He had a small motorcycle at that time, and even with us both on it we were not heavy enough to change the stoplight to green. Fortunately a policeman was sitting at the corner and we asked if we run it and he said yes. I have kept in touch with Bill and Kris during the years and enjoyed seeing them when they came through NC on their way to Disney World. I will always remember Bill as being a good friend - he was always a really nice guy. Kris, my deepest sympathy to you and family for what I know is a huge loss in your lives. Words are not adequate for the loss of one's partner, but please know I am thinking of you.
